What's New In?

Script Genie is an easy to use free software program for creating and managing your screenplays. It allows you to create scenes, characters, titles, scene headers, and other types of basic script elements using its extensive scripts templates. Once created, you can format your scene headers, dialogue, and other elements using easy to read attributes, allowing you to create an easily formatted set of scene documents. You can create and save your scenes as printable Word documents, allowing you to easily format your scenes with script formatting tools such as screenplay space, page numbering, and scene headers. You can also easily add your scenes to Microsoft Word as Word documents, allowing you to easily format the scenes using script formatting tools like Scene Headers, Script Titles, Dialogue, and Script Footnotes. You can easily add dialogue, character names, and other basic script elements using the extended word processor functionality provided by Script Genie, letting you easily create formatted, printable scripts. Script Genie allows you to create scene documents for Microsoft Word, so you can use script formatting tools like page numbering, script titles, and scene headers to format your scripts to any word processor, without changing your document. A script document created with Script Genie is a simple text file containing the text of your screenplay. It is a standard Microsoft Word document, so it can be opened with your favorite word processor and most script formatting software. Script Genie allows you to easily create and manage your screenplays, so you can focus on writing, instead of the nitty-gritty of formatting. We are a young team and we will try to make Script Genie better and better. If you have any feature request, please, let us know on "". We sincerely hope that Script Genie will be helpful to you in your screenwriting adventure.
